Carmel Portraits . . .

By DAISY BOSTICK

Would you believe it if someone told you that the first Carmel Post Office wasn't in Carmel at all? Well, I guess it's true for I have the information from Joe Hitchcock and he ought to know for he has been here so many years that he helped plant the trees on Ocean Avenue and he was the first to carry the mail to Carmel. That was in 1903 and was before we had a postoffice.

Back in 1891 long before the town of Carmel became a gleam in the eyes of J. F. Devendorf there was a postoffice up the valley which bore the official name of Carmel Post Office. As no town had as yet been established here it probably took its name from the Carmel Mission as did the Carmel Valley and the Carmel River. The postmaster was Bert E. Cahoon and the postoffice was located where the White Oak Inn now stands about fifteen miles up the valley. I believe it is at present housing an art gallery. The mail came in on stage from Salinas three times a week, went on to Jamesburg and returned to Salinas on the alternate days with the outgoing mail.

Now let's leave the antiquated stages bumping along in the dust and ruts of the Carmel Valley to take the mail to the farmers and take a look at what was happening here.

A settlement was being made by the Order of Chosen Friends north of our present Ocean Avenue. They formed a company under the name of the San Francisco Land Company, made surveys, named streets and built a few scattered houses in the woods. A map was filed under the name of Carmel City and that name still stands on the maps as the nucleus of the present township. When J. F. Devendorf and Frank Powers stepped in and acquired this land they added to their holdings by buying a large acreage south of Ocean Avenue and they named that addition Carmel-by-the-Sea although the name of the town they were promoting was Carmel.

When the city was incorporated in 1916, the trustees probably preferred "by-the-sea" so the official name of the village became Carmel-by-the-Sea. The old settlers have always resented the name. They feel that it takes from the beauty and historical charm of the old Spanish word Carmelo which

Sam Colburn's Show Opens February 1 At Carmel Art Gallery

As the first one-man show of the New Year, the Carmel Art Association is offering at its gallery on Dolores Street the latest watercolors of Sam Colburn, artist and golfer. This exhibit will open on Monday, February 1 and continue through February 14. It has been several years since Mr. Colburn has presented his works for a special showing at the gallery; and he says he is anxious to present his latest and he hopes his best painting. Last year he was given one-man shows in Santa Barbara, Tucson, and San Francisco.

Although he continues to paint in Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, and Arizona, his subject matter in this current exhibition will be derived almost entirely from this area. There will be seascapes, farm scenes, Carmel Valley landscapes, and figure studies of Monterey fishermen.

These watercolors will be framed but without glass as the artist feels that glass gives an effect that has nothing to do with the actual painting, and also permits distracting reflections.

Fire Engine Arrives Next Friday; Will Demonstrate In P. G.

Our long-awaited great big handsome red and chromium Van Pelt fire engine arrives next Friday, January 29, and that's official. Fire Chief Vincent Torras told the Pine Cone that he has made an appointment with representatives of the Board of Fire Underwriters to test the Van Pelt on that day, so it has to be here.

They'll take it over to the Pacific Grove reservoir and see if it will pump the 750 gallons of water per minute it's supposed to. In addition to being equipped to pump water from hydrant or reservoir at high pressure, it can pump from its own 500-gallon tank at 850 pounds pressure, so it can function when there is no hydrant handy.

It costs $15,000, and a lot of Carmel people saw its sister last fall when she was brought here for a demonstration, while the fire department was still shopping around.

And what's to be done with the La Verne? Torras says that he's had several bids for it from people who collect antique fire engines but the Carmel Volunteer firemen would like to keep it for an antique themselves, and bring it out for parades and great occasions. Problem is to find a place to house it. Torras says he's negotiating with a long-time friend of the department and of Carmel for the use of his garage and he hopes to be able to report favorable results shortly.

Caucus Picks Teague; Is Impressed By Bramblett's Speech

Republican Central Committee-men from the Thirteenth District, meeting in San Luis Obispo Sunday, endorsed Charles Teague of Ventura as their congressional candidate in the primary election to be held in June.

Their action came after Ernie Bramblett, incumbent, told them that he would not be a candidate for re-election.

Local committeemen reported on their return to Carmel that Bramblett spoke of his confidence in being able to clear himself of charges that he falsified his payroll records, but he obviously could not discuss the matter then, at the caucus meeting, before his case came to trial.

"All of us were impressed with his sincerity and dignity," the Pine Cone's informant said.

Thomson Hudson, Monterey attorney, and James L. Holmes, Santa Barbara, spoke before the caucus, Hudson asking for sponsorship as congressional candidate, Holmes that the group refrain from sponsorship and allow the candidates to fight it out in the primaries. He indicated that he would run in any case, but Hudson said he would not be a candidate without party support.

MRS. WALLACE PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Mrs. Rosalie Wallace pleaded not guilty to allowing her dog to commit a nuisance on a Carmel sidewalk at her arraignment in Judge Ray Baugh's municipal court in Monterey on Monday.

On Tuesday her trial was set for February 1. She asked for a court rather than a jury trial.

Presbyterian Church Asks Co. To Approve Site

The new Presbyterian Church, which was denied a permit to build a chapel in Carmel at Scenic and Ocean, filed an application on Monday with the county planning commission for a use permit to build a church building in Hatton Fields.

The new site, about two acres in size, is on the west side of Highway Number One, north of the island formed by the old county road turning into Hatton Fields.

Clyde never lets you down. That is a very desirable quality in a police chief.

Every few days since the city council decided last month that it was time to turn in one of our two police patrol cars for a new one, we've been calling 7-6403 and asking, "Have you got it yet, Clyde? What color is it?"

And Clyde has been saying, "Not yet, I'm trying for chartreuse but it doesn't seem to be very available in police cars. Anyway, I promise you, it won't be black."

We saw it Tuesday morning—our new little Chevy patrol car, and it's baby-ribbon blue!

Now let's see it parked in the vicinity of the Ocean and Mission streets intersection between the hours of 6:00 and 9:00 o'clock in the morning and from 5:00 to 7:30 at night. Citizens tell us they are scared out of their wits at that place and time because so many people going to and from work over the Hill run the Ocean Avenue stop signs as if they didn't exist.

Mothers' March On Polio Will Climax Fund Drive Feb. 2

The annual March of Dimes campaign, which opened January 1, is now well under way, and thus far Peninsula residents have been more than generous in their response to appeals placed in post-office boxes and carried on coin collectors placed in stores and offices.

Carl Patnude is supervising the campaign locally, with Walter Warfield chairman of the Monterey Peninsula campaign committee. The drive will culminate on the evening of February 2 with the "Mothers' March on Polio," when those wishing to contribute are asked to turn on their porch lights as a signal to the volunteer collectors, who will circulate throughout the community.

Last year's record outlay of $36,000 in Monterey County in aid and treatment to polio sufferers requires that this year's goal be at least $50,000. The 1953 campaign in Monterey County netted around $35,600—half of which went to the National Polio Foundation, with the remainder retained in the county.

THAT Ordinance Is Back Again Greatly Revised

Don Craig made a report on the street parking ordinance at the planning commission meeting Wednesday. Probably the most unworkable ordinance ever contemplated for Carmel, it was passed on by the council to the planning commission for study and recommendation last summer.

The planning commission, regarding it with awe and wonder, suggested that their chairman, Mrs. Talbert Josselyn, appoint a committee to study it. Mrs. Josselyn chose Donald Craig (who is also a city councilman) and Lew Snyder. Then everybody forgot the ordinance including Craig and Snyder until City Clerk called it to the planning commission's attention at their last month's meeting. Craig and Snyder went to work on the ordinance and Craig discussed the fruit of their labors with the planning commission Wednesday, asking for help of the commission as a whole on several knotty problems. The meeting lasted beyond everybody's dinner time, but the planning commission got something in shape in the way of an ordinance to return to the council. It is doubtful if the council will recognize its original brainchild in the instrument the commission is returning to them, which is just as well.

Craig prefaced his remarks with "The ordinance should be completely revised and rewritten in light of the local situation." There are no alleys, he pointed out, so entrances for off-street parking would break up the curbs and cut down the available curb parking to a serious degree, since there would be many such entrances because of the number of small lots in Carmel business district, some of them with only 25-foot frontage.

From Carmel High's standpoint, the climax games of the current hoop season will be played at the Padre gym tonight where the Carmel lightweight and varsity squads entertain the strong Pacific Grove quintets. Tied with the Breakers for second place in the varsity division and one game behind the P.G. Babes in the lightweight class, the Carmel squads must get over their natural rivals to stay in the flag chase.

Both the Pacific Grove and Carmel varsities hold convincing wins over Gonzales, King City, and Hollister, and both have bowed to the superior play of the Gilroy Mustangs. Off comparative scores against Gilroy, the Breakers are solid favorites in tonight's classic. Gilroy just barely lasted to get a four-point win over the aggressive Breakers, while the Padres were blitzed by the Blue & White Mustangs, 47-34.

Big guns in the Breaker attack are forwards Dick Reynolds and Larry Quentel, and a pair of sharpshooting guards, Tom Hoy and Cal Moldenhauer. Barring Gilroy's sensational Tony Vigna, Reynolds is the most polished hoopster in the B Division. The Padre heavies will start with Don Leidig and Dave Castagna at the forward spots, George Wightman, center, with George Hunter and Dick Jennings at the guards.

Carmel's little Padres showed real come-through performance by whipping Hollister and Gilroy lightweights in last-second thriller finishes and are anxious to have the same type lightning hit the Pacific Grove lights. Gary Nielsen, Clyde Klaumann, Randy Houghtelling, Eric Scarlett and Mike Mosolf will answer the opening whistle for the Padrecitos.

TOO MUCH COST-ELLO FOR CARMEL VARSITY

Gilroy High's Varsity Basketball team unlimbered a bigger gun than sensational Tony Vigna against Carmel High last Friday night, and when the smoke of battle had cleared away the hosts enjoyed a 47-34 margin over the desperate Padres. At 6'3" and 180 pounds, forward Costello did a great job of controlling both boards, turned in a sparkling defensive game, and pushed through twenty points to rout the ambitious Carmel lads.

Carmel's George Wightman played his best game of the year but even his 17-point effort wasn't enough to counter the great play of Costello and his mates.

The large Carmel rooting section had moments of enjoyment as a fighting Padre lightweight team edged the host lightweights, 28-26, in a thrilling preliminary tussle. Close as paper on the wall from the opening whistle, the lightweight game was decided in the final three seconds as Eric Scarlett, Carmel center, scored the clinching two-pointer on a jump-ball play. Gary Nielsen was top scorer for the Padrecitos, hitting for 10 points on three field goals and a pair of free throws. Mike Mosolf's six points followed Nielsen in the scoring department.

With the win over Gilroy, the little Padres move into contention in the lightweight division as the closely bunched field chases the leading Pacific Grove Wavelets.

RECORDS SMASHED AT CROSBY GOLF TOURNAMENT

Lloyd Mangrum's 204 individual pro record, established last year in Bing's great golf festival, safely survived the onslaught of 120 professional golfers in the 1954 Crosby Clambake, but there were lots of other records shattered during last week's colorful tournament. Most important, although record winds blew at Cypress Point, the weather remained clear, and record galleries contributed nearly $40,000 to the charity-marked receipts of the world's finest golf tournament. Television rights and program sales soared the total receipts to around the $50,000 mark. As the generous Bing picks up the tabs for the tournament costs, worthwhile charities will be able to do a record amount of good as a result of the tourney.

A long-time-between-wins record was set by winner of the individual pro division, Dutch Harrison, the venerable Arkansas Traveler, who last won this event in 1939 when the Crosby Tourney was held at Rancho Santa Fe, near San Diego. Old Dutch just barely made his 210 total hold up for the win as he slipped to a bogey six on the final hole and finished one stroke ahead of Jimmy Demaret's 211.

In the pro-amateur division, a record was established when four teams finished in a 193 tie for first place. Baseball fans were pleased to see the Lefty O'Doul-Walt Burkemo team hit well enough to share in the four-way tie.

For the average golfer, the most appreciated record was the sixteen strokes and six golf balls required by Porky Oliver to negotiate the 16th hole at Cypress Point. Here is a real golfer's golfer; where weaker swingers would pick up, and did, the likeable and courageous round man went through all the tortures of a miserable round of golf to conquer the awesome Cypress 16th with a record-shattering sixteen blows. What a great lesson this is to the average golfer!

Yes, many records were established in Bing's tournament this year, and the gallery was treated to a show worth far more than the admission price, but the big winner, as always, will be the youth of the Monterey Peninsula—Bing's friends.

THROUGH THE HOOP

Determined not to keep their record clean (they are working on a 14-game losing streak now) the MPC Lobos host Menlo Junior College at Monterey High gym tomorrow night. If the hard-luck Lobos are going to win one this season, this should be the time. The Oaks have been taken over the bumps in their last few outings and appear ripe for picking. See where Carmel's Jerry Colman is top scorer on the MPC squad so far this season. Sporting slightly over an 11-point average for the year, Jerry will be shooting for bigger things against the vulnerable Menlo quintet. . . . Monterey High's quick and aggressive lightweight and varsity teams engaged the Carmel Padres in a pair of practice tilts at the Carmel gym last Tuesday and ran to a pair of victories over the slower Carmel squads. Those Toreadors really fly down the court and will offer plenty of competition for any of the A Division teams this season. . . . Gilroy High is rapidly earning the reputation as Giant Killer in the San Jose area basketball circles. Last week, the classy Mustangs knocked over the strong Bellarmine quintet in a real upset as the Bells are considered one of the top prep teams in Northern California. Showing that A League teams are also easy for them, the ambitious Gilroy lads toyed with the Watsonville Wildcats, defeating them last Tuesday in a practice tussle. . . . Fletcher Dutton's Del Monte School for Boys hoopsters are improving with leaps and bounds and are about ready to whip some of the junior-varsity and reserve teams hereabouts. First time out the Del Monte lads had trouble finding their way around the court, but under the patient tutelage of Gary Childs the Pebble Beach cagers are turning into smooth courtmen. . . . Carmel-Pacific Grove natural rivalry breaks out in full flame at the Carmel gym tonight. The Carmel pavilion is usually packed to the limit for this one so wise fans will start a little early to avoid being shut out.

O'Reilly To Speak At Demo Meeting

Timothy O'Reilly, candidate for congress from the 13th district, will be the featured speaker at the annual meeting of the Carmel Women's Democratic Club Wednesday noon at the Carmel Girl Scout House. The club will elect officers for the next year and present its annual report to the members.

Mr. O'Reilly was recently endorsed as a candidate for congress by the Democratic District Committee, meeting in San Luis Obispo. Following his talk, he will be available for questions from the audience, and at 2:00 o'clock will meet with precinct workers of the local club.

Members are urged to attend the meeting, and guests are invited. There will be no admission charge, but those planning to attend the meeting should bring their own sandwiches. The club will provide dessert and coffee.

Carmel Portraits . . .

was given to the Mission by Father Junipero Serra. However, residents and tourists alike call the village Carmel, although all legal documents issued by the Town Council bear the name of Carmel-by-the-Sea. But I'll wager that it galls them to do it.

When Devendorf and Powers began operations here they wanted the Carmel Valley residents to relinquish the name to the new settlement but the request was refused. As time went on the valley postoffice was moved to what is now the Rancho Carmelo and A. M. Whitlock became postmaster. Meanwhile the little settlement adjoining the Mission lands named Carmel was slowly growing into a village. What mail there was came through the Monterey postoffice and was locked into a leather pouch and delivered by stage to the office of the Carmel Development Company then located on the site of the present Stanford's drug store. A relative of Devendorf's, Johnny Staples, took care of the mail and the residents were not put to the inconvenience of going to Monterey for it. And although the new village bore the name of Carmel, the real postoffice of that name was still up the valley.

About this time the valley people were having troubles of their own. Whitlock resigned and moved away and no one else wanted to assume the responsibility so the postoffice was at last discontinued. Joe Hitchcock tells me that Frank Powers lost no time in leaving for Washington to apply for the name. He used all the charm, legal talent and persuasive powers for which he was noted and his trip was successful. At last the Carmel Post Office came to Carmel. And Joe adds emphatically: "If you will notice on the cancellation stamps, the name of Carmel is used—not Carmel-by-the-Sea." So we enjoy the distinction of having two names—both official—of our home town.

It was in 1903 that Louis Slevin became Carmel's first postmaster and the office was located in his own building which is now Spencer's House of Cards. Slevin also sold paper, envelopes and other items of a similar nature and he had a news agency. When he went home at night he left unclaimed newspapers outside the door with a sign "Take one and put five cents in the slot." I doubt if he ever got cheated of a single nickel.

Shortly after taking over the office of postmaster, Slevin, with a great many inward misgivings, bought a half dozen boxes and lay awake nights wondering if he would be able to rent them. But he did and soon added to the number. Joe Hitchcock tells me that his family had Box 18 until recently when he gave it up in favor of the Fire Department of which he was a charter member. It might be mentioned right here that the postoffice now has 2800 boxes and that there is usually a waiting list of applicants who can't get boxes sometimes for a period of several months. Much of the travel was done on horseback while Slevin was postmaster and it was the custom of the horsemen to ride up on the sidewalk, reach down and insert their keys in the boxes and pull out their mail without dismounting.

L. E. Payne was the second postmaster and it was during his term that the postoffice was moved to a part of the Beck building which adjoined the drug store run by old Doc Beck—now Stanfords. Stella Vincent was a clerk during Payne's tenure and when he resigned she was appointed to fill the vacancy and Helen Parkes, Stella's life-long friend became a clerk. Helen served several terms and under four presidents. Helen, in addition to her duties in the postoffice, was a member of the City Council and also a member of the first Planning Commission. I had the pleasure of spending a few hours with Helen and Stella recently and found them full of reminiscences about those days, for that was a very important epoch in the life of the growing village. Helen was elected to the Council on the "Art" ticket which used Save Carmel's Beauty for its slogan and she laughs when she says that the first things that came under her consideration were the construction of roads and sewers.

I asked the gals if they had any unusual experiences while running the postoffice and Helen said: "Yes, it was Bob Leidig's chickens. They ran in and out of the office and their cackling and crowing could be heard most of the day." And the night before the Pine Cone came out, Bill Overstreet would stick his head in while they were sorting the mail and tell them all the news that would come out the next morning in the Pine Cone.

"Dog trouble" began about that time and as we all know is with us still. The canines, like the people, made a habit of congregating in the postoffice lobby and fought many a bloody battle. Helen and Stella witnessed many of these dog fights while peering through the boxes. They were safe behind a wall but the unfortunate women who were waiting for their mail had to jump up on the high desks to get away from the belligerents and there was much screeching and grabbing of skirts while Helen and Stella were enjoying the show.

It was during Stella's term that the postoffice was moved to Dolores Street next door to the present Monterey County Trust and Savings Bank. Carmel was then entering a period of prosperity and the postoffice jumped from fourth class to almost first class.

After Stella Vincent, William Overstreet was postmaster, and then Irene Campbell Cator became postmistress. Somewhere about that time the postoffice was again moved, this time to the Murphy building at Mission and Ocean Avenue. Next to be appointed was Ernest Bixler and shortly after he assumed office the address of the postoffice became the Leidig building on Dolores near Sixth. Along came the war and Bixler went to fight along with the Seabees. Fred Bechdolt became Acting Postmas-

Audubon Screen Tour Shows Philosophy Of Conservation

Conservation of the country's wild life and outstanding scenic areas for the benefit of future citizens is America's most pressing problem, Cleveland B. Grant, nature photographer told the large audience that greeted him on January 14 in Sunset Auditorium for the second Audubon Screen Tour of this winter's series.

"Conservation", he explained, "is living in harmony with nature", and this subject, for the fastest growing state of the union, is its fastest growing problem. He pointed to the many species of birds, large and small, that come from the far north country and the eastern seaboard to spend the winter in California. Our share in these interesting visitors does not entitle us to destroy them, as a number of the early feathered families have been made extinct by ruthless slaughter.

His first film, conforming to the demand of the society officers, dealt with America's big game. He showed charming shots of antelope and various deer, moose, and caribou, noting that once there were forty million antelope in the country, against a few thousand now. Similarly, sixty million buffalo were reduced by unregulated hunting to only 500. Recently these great animals are increasing slowly in numbers. Bear, mountain goats and bighorn sheep were shown in their native haunts.

The reel on birds was equally delightful, beginning with the great white pelican, and the small snow goose, one of our winter visitors. He showed the family life of a group of hawks, the activities of many shore birds and those of inland waterways of Canada. His shots of the extensive camping party that was necessary to cover the large territory visited over many weeks which enabled him to cover the period from the egg to the fledgling and the young bird freed from the nest brought home to the audience a realization of the time, great care and effort required to produce marvelous "movies" of our wild neighbors. The audience responded enthusiastically to the pictures and Mr. Grant's entertaining account of wildlife activities.

Everything Turned Out For Bakery Fire

All of the Carmel Fire Department's equipment (except the La Verne) and 18 volunteers turned out for a fire in the Dolores Bakery kitchen Monday morning at 9:45 o'clock. Heat from the range set fire to the floor. Mrs. Hans Frey, wife of the proprietor, telephoned the department. Firemen arrived with the high pressure tank, took the hose into the basement, chopped up through the bakery floor and put the fire out with the high pressure spray. Meanwhile the Mack pumper arrived and the firemen laid a line, which wasn't used, from the Ocean Avenue hydrant. The salvage truck stood by.

The building is owned by Carl Rohr and he's going to put fire-brick under the bakery range. This is the second time the floor has caught fire at that spot.

This week was literally "dead week". We had semester finals for certain subjects on particular days. On Monday there were math and music tests; Tuesday, science and shop; Wednesday, English, art and business, and on Thursday, social studies and driver education. You have never seen so many bags under the eyes in your life. Because of finals, there were few club meetings except for Leaders' Club and Rally Council.

Today was not only the last day in the semester but it is also "Beat the Breakers" Day, since Carmel vies with P.G. tonight. All the spirited students wore bright pink "Beat the Breakers" cards on Thursday and Friday, and tonight a red block C will be formed in Attention: The new Student Body officers are the following: president, Dell Redding; vice president, Dennis Gerber; secretary, Lynn McMath; commissioner of publicity, Luan Meatheringham; commissioner of social affairs, Pat Ricketts; commissioner of girl's athletics, Sarah McCloud, and commissioner of boy's athletics, Howard Roloff.

The new GAA officers are Pat Ricketts, president; Cynthia Cox, vice president, and Connie Nielsen, secretary-treasurer.

EVERYBODY COME TO THE GAME TONIGHT TO BEAT THE BREAKERS!!!!

Fat Scholarships Are Available To C.S.F. Sealbearers

If Carmel High students are as brainy as the recent Iowa tests indicate, the majority of them should have little trouble qualifying for one of the dozens of fat college scholarships offered this year to sealbearers of the California Scholarship Federation.

Sealbearers, explains CSF advisor Mrs. Matthew Beaton, are graduating seniors who have had at least four of their last six semesters as members of CSF, one semester of which must be in the senior year. To gain membership in CSF, a student must earn three A's and one B in solids (regular college preparatory courses), or eight scholarship points in solids and two in extra-curricular leadership activities—i.e., elected student body or club offices, athletic awards, etc.

This spring's graduating seniors are being offered scholarships ranging in value from $100 to $700 by 21 California colleges and universities, among them U.S.C., Cal Tech, Stanford and Mills. In addition, three eastern universities are offering CSF scholarships for the first time this year: Yale, one scholarship worth $2200; Columbia, one or more worth $1000 each, and the University of Chicago, four scholarships of $690 each.

Information regarding the scholarships and formal application blanks may be obtained through Mrs. Beaton at the high school.

restaurants and bars to provide one parking space for every hundred square feet of floor space used for eating and drinking, would force any new restaurants to be constructed as drive-ins. Using The Spinning Wheel as an example, he said that for the 21 tables, 11 parking spaces would be required or 2000 feet of off-street parking.

The requirement of one parking space for every 600 square feet of floor area for commercial buildings, business and professional offices should not apply to lots of 25 feet or less, he thought. On 40-foot lots or more, a loading and unloading zone should be provided per building unit, instead of the off-street parking specified in the original ordinance.

Some of the sections of the ordinance presented so many ramifications that the commission suggested returning them to the council with the note that more study is needed.

In the main, Craig and Snyder's recommendations were accepted by the planning commission and the revised suggested ordinance will be returned to the city council for further consideration at its next meeting.

Mental Health Group To Present Movie Of Children's Village

On Tuesday evening, 8:00 o'clock at Sunset Auditorium, the Mental Health Society of Monterey County will present a film on the development and operation of the Pestalozzi Children's Village in Trogen, Switzerland. Dr. Friedy Heisler, who visited the village last spring, will discuss the ideas behind and the nature of this unique community, which she calls "the most outstanding example of devotion to youth and belief in humanity, and a truly humble experience in democracy."

The Pestalozzi Children's Village has been described as "a present from Switzerland to the world"—a microcosmic prototype of a community of all peoples. Its "citizens" are war orphans of various European countries—France, Austria, Germany, Italy, Greece, Finland, Britain and Switzerland.

The program is co-sponsored by the World Affairs Council, the Carmel Parent-Teachers Association, the League of Women Voters, and the A.A.U.W. Admission will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children; all proceeds will go to the Pestalozzi Village.

MPC CAMPUS NEWS

By Allene Knight

This week was the last regular week of the first semester, as next week will be devoted entirely to finals. Registration for the second semester will be on Monday, February 1, from 8:00 to 5:00 o'clock. Classes start on Tuesday.

The Associated Women Students held their elections and Allene Petty was elected as president of the two groups which make up the club, the social and the sports. Allene was previously the president of the AWS sports group.

Tonight the MPC cagers host Menlo College at the Monterey High School gym. An after-game dance, sponsored by the Executive Council, will be held in the Student Union. The admission with a Student Body card is 25 cents, and is 50 cents without a card.

March 15 Deadline For James D. Phelan Awards Competition

March 15 is the closing date for the 1954 James D. Phelan Awards competition, Noel Sullivan announced this week, calling attention to three awards offered to writers of biography. The first award will be $500; the second, $400, and the third, $300.

Applicants for awards, both men and women, must be native born citizens of California, and must be between the ages of 20 and 40. Applications must be made on forms especially provided for that purpose and may be obtained from the office of the James D. Phelan Award in Literature and Art, 629 Phelan Building, San Francisco 2. Applicants must submit a book, or chapters from a book they are writing.

The awards are made available annually under the terms of a bequest by the late Senator James D. Phelan, to bring about a further development of native talent in California in the fields of literature and art.

Estelle Monteagle

Mrs. Estelle Houston Monteagle, a resident of the Peninsula since 1923, died last Friday morning at her Monterey Peninsula Country Club home. She had been in poor health for some time.

She was born in 1896 in Madera, California, and spent her early years in Oakland. For many years she was a prominent figure in both San Francisco and Peninsula society.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Gallatin Powers of Monterey and Mrs. Patricia Martin of Beverly Hills, and five grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea Crematorium in Pacific Grove, with the Rev. Bernard Lovgren officiating. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Extension Course On World Politics At Monterey College

Bohus Benes, former Czechoslovak Consul in San Francisco, who made his debut as a lecturer in this area in November 1953 at the general meeting of the American Association of University Women in Salinas, is now conducting a course on Current International Politics at the Monterey Peninsula College.

It is a San Jose State College Extension Course and the fee is $15.00.

The course began at 7:00 o'clock last night and consists of ten meetings of lectures and class discussions on the most pertinent issues of present-day world politics. All teachers who need college credit—the course may be taken for 3 units of college credit—and others interested in the discussions of international politics may still join the class.

Bohus Benes is well versed in the subject of world politics because of his long and rich career in diplomacy and journalism, as well as his experience in what he calls "teaching teachers and the intelligent adult public." He participated at many international conferences and in the work of both the League of Nations and the United Nations. His cooperation with the late President of Czechoslovakia, Dr. Edward Benes, who was his uncle, both as a press attache and later as secretary, brought him into contact with many Soviet, French, British and American statesmen. Hence Benes' teaching is not based merely on academic studies, which he does not lack, but also on the interesting, often tragic experiences of his nation or family, both of which have been deeply involved in the political catastrophes of the past three decades.

Interested persons may register during the second meeting of the class at 7:00 o'clock on January 28 at the Monterey Peninsula College.

Open Even When He's Closed

Must have been daydreaming on my way to a meeting down in Centerville the other night. My car ran dry before I thought to look at the gas gauge, but I managed to coast into a gas station—and found it closed!

Well, I thought my plans were ruined for sure until I noticed a gasoline can with a sign: "This is emergency gas. Just help yourself and leave the can with $1.00. Thanks."

Got started, made the meeting on time, and had enough gas to get back home again—thanks to a trusting friend.

From where I sit, folks who trust their neighbors make the world a better place to live in. For instance, letting a friend express his personal preferences, is one way of trusting your neighbor. Sometimes I prefer a temperate glass of beer in the evening but I'll always ask what you'd like before I pour yours.

Landau On Morocco

Rom Landau, authority on Morocco, gave an address at All Saints' Church Parish Hall Monday night. His talk, sponsored by the World Affairs Council of the Monterey Peninsula, has stimulated so much interest locally on Morocco that Miss Elizabeth Niles, Carmel librarian, has gathered together the books, pamphlets and magazines on the subject, and put them in the foyer of the library where they are readily available.

Landau warned that Morocco has become "one of the chief danger points of the world" and that developments there may result in its becoming a second Indo-China.

He pointed out that the legitimate Sultan has been replaced by "what Moslems believe is a quisling puppet."

"Up to 1912, Morocco was an independent empire. It had enjoyed independence longer than any other country in the world. Under the first governor-general, an essentially medieval state was transformed into a modern one with an enormous increase in wealth. Morocco is greatly indebted to the French. And yet—

"Eventually the Sultan made common cause with the nationalists. At first the nationalists wanted only self-government; finally, complete independence.

"According to impartial French observers—foremost among them leading Catholics, Francois Mauriac, Nobel-Prize winner, Prof. Louis Massignon of the University of Sorbonne, and Robert Barrat, Secretary General of the Centre of Catholic Intellectuals—the deposition of the Sultan put the clock back in Morocco by fifty years.

"The deposition of the legitimate Sultan, Mohammed V, on August 20th was a victory not of the tribesmen, but of colonialists who have regarded North Africa for many years as a particular sphere of exploitation—and in fact turned Morocco, which according to all treaties is still free and independent, into a colony pure and simple.

"Moroccans believe his removal marks the final failure of their formerly peaceful methods towards attaining independence. Hence their recent adoption of sabotage and violence.

"There has been a changed attitude of Moroccans toward the United States. A year ago Americans were the most popular foreigners in Morocco. But the people, who were 100 percent for the United States at that time, today are at least 50 percent anti-American. This is because of what happened last August and what happened in the U.N.

"The Moroccan people believe that the Sultan, who is not only the secular but also the spiritual head, would not have been deposed if the United States government had tried to prevent this action (as they assume it was prevented in 1951 when the first attempt to depose the Sultan was made).

"Second, they feel that a two-thirds majority in the U.N. General Assembly was not obtained chiefly because of the attitude of Britain and the United States government—both of whom voted against the watered-down version of the Arab-Asian resolution on Morocco.

"Moroccans believe that the United States came into being because of the passionate desire of the American people for self-determination and to shake off the foreign yoke.

"Six hundred million people regard the vote in the Assembly's plenary session as a reversal of all the promises given by the western powers in the United Nations and elsewhere reaffirming the rights of the peoples to independence.

"We who know something of the complexities of politics understand why the United States was compelled to vote against the Moroccan resolution. But we are not dealing with highly educated people of the west, but with the largest single bloc in the cold war, the Asiatic-Arab bloc, 80 to 90 percent of whom cannot read or write and see the world purely in terms of black and white.

"The problem of communism does not worry them. The problem for them is still one of the colonialism of the westerners—chiefly European imperialism.

"For two years the French have been unable to decide whether to ratify the European defense treaty. Since the European defense treaty is basic to European defense against communism, the Administration in Washington cannot afford to offend France. But the Arab-Asian bloc does not view the problem in the same manner.

"The longest single defense line in the world is occupied by the countries who were spokesmen for Morocco in the U.N.

"I believe that last year I said that the only communists in Morocco were members of the French trade union of the CGT—the only trade union permitted in Morocco—which is communist dominated.

"I was in Tangier about three months ago. I saw a number of my Moorish friends. I was shocked to find that every one of them was willing to welcome communist help. When I told them that once they opened the door to communism they would lose everything, their answer was, 'What can we lose?'

"They believe there are no liberties left—that Russia can take nothing from them but can, however, help them. How Russia will do it, they don't know, but they believe nothing is beyond the ingenuity of Moscow.

"Whether the Russians are infiltrating agents into Morocco I don't know, but even now they may be there—not Russians but possibly Syrians, Iraqs, Egyptians, possibly even Moroccans—trained in Moscow for this very purpose for the last five years.

"Can we in the west—both Britain and the United States—afford to buy off one of our allies at the expense of another?

"The supreme test of statesmanship is not to sacrifice one friend for another but to compromise so as not to lose either. How, I don't know.

"If we go on offending this bloc, something may happen, as the foreign minister of Pakistan suggested in his last speech to the U.N.: 'Tomorrow you in the west may need again the good will and friendship of the peoples of Asia and Africa. Today we come as supplicants; tomorrow, possibly sooner than you may expect, the roles may be reversed.'

"These words express the feeling of some six to seven hundred million people. Can we afford to lose the good will of these six to seven hundred million to buy one treaty, however important European defense may be?

"The situation in France is difficult. Germany has invaded her twice in her lifetime. I don't think we have the right to blame France for European defense community delays. But regarding Morocco, we deal with a small minority of Frenchmen. The French nation as a whole does not benefit from Morocco; her budget represents a net deficit to France. The ones who benefit are the colonialist—big business—North African lobby. It is a small but powerful group in France and no French government so far has had strength enough to subdue it.

"To protect the selfish interests of this very small group we expose ourselves to the danger of losing both Morocco and the Arab-Asian bloc.

"In Morocco anarchy has begun. Once anarchy begins, who knows where it will lead? On anarchy communism thrives. The way of the communist is to fish in troubled waters.

"Unless something fundamental happens, we may see Morocco in a condition similar to that of Indo-China, where the war started as a nationalist war but became a communist one. Africa too might be added to communism."

The Time Has Come .

By Kippy Stuart

Some time ago I was so interested in the bold Billbergias that I sat down and wrote in this column all I could find out about this exotic. I had seen a Billbergia in bloom in a friend's living room and it was so stunning that I longed for one. Now, in my living room, my wish has been granted and I am possessed of a bold Billbergia.

This plant belongs to the pineapple family and throws out long green spires of leaves, exactly like the pineapple. All of a sudden, when the plant makes up its mind, a startling coral spire will appear in the heart of one cluster. It is fascinating to watch, for almost to the naked eye, the development of the blossom is visible. Last week I watched one coral spire develop; the next day I could hardly believe my eyes, for there it was in full bloom, a marvelous thing to behold. I know of no other plant that offers so many surprises.

It is difficult to describe the flower, but I will try. The coral-colored spire, that shoots up rigid and stiff, will all of a sudden burst exactly like a Fourth of July sky rocket, sending out a plume of multi-colored blossoms. The colors are numerous, consisting of the coral scape that stands up straight and from this scape, like myriad magic lanterns, dangle long plumes. Colors of plume are green, coral, blue, red and yellow. So dainty are these falls of blossoms that they would be suitable for my lady's earring.

The habitat of the Billbergia is Mexico, Central and South America. They grow in the foothills and mountains of these regions. The fortunate thing is, that this plant adapts itself to the coastal region, and Carmel especially is fortunate in being able to plant and develop Billbergias. Among these semi-epiphytal plants are found varieties suitable to house plants or patio culture. Their culture is very simple; partial shade or filtered sunlight. They will grow in the ground, in pots or in hanging baskets. It seems to me that Billbergias is a good substitute for the everlasting fuchsias, since it does not require the constant watering and care of the fuchsia.

We are indebted to Miss E. Hamilton Fairley of Temple City, California. In an article in the Los Angeles Times, Miss Fairley wrote an intriguing story of the Billbergias and from this information, a friend of mine got in touch with Miss Fairley, and here you are, with suggestions that you too own a Billbergia.

Miss Fairley is a far traveller in search of exotics. She is also a landscape architect, her locale being Beverly Hills, Pasadena and Los Angeles. Miss Fairley tells us that there are many varieties of Billbergias which belong to the Bromeliads family. Some of the illustrations of the hybrid plants are out of this world lovely. I am not quite sure of the variety of my own Billbergias, but by any name it would be prime. From the illustrations in the article mentioned, I suspect that I am now living with Billbergias cryptanthopsis!

Walter Gordon To Address A.A.U.W. At Sat. Luncheon

Walter A. Gordon, chairman of the California Adult Authority and author of numerous works on criminology, will be the principal speaker at the general meeting and luncheon of the Monterey Peninsula Branch, A.A.U.W., to be held tomorrow at 1:00 o'clock at La Playa Hotel.

Mr. Gordon was appointed by Governor Warren in 1943 to the California Board of Prison Terms and Paroles, and two years later became chairman of the group, now known as Adult Authority. For 21 years prior to this, Mr. Gordon practiced law in California, working concurrently under August Vollmer on the Berkeley Police Force. For some years he was scout for the U.C. football varsity. He is a graduate of the University of California and holds the degree of Doctor of Law.

His talk tomorrow will deal with Our Social Responsibility to the Maladjusted. He will be introduced by the program chairman, Eleanor Henry.

In addition to the important general meeting, three A.A.U.W. section meetings will be held this coming week. The social studies section will meet Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Gleb Drujina in Pacific Grove; speaker will be Miss Eleanor Crouch, president of the Monterey County Mental Health Association. On Tuesday, the afternoon book section will meet at 2:00 o'clock at the home of Miss Alice Graham in Carmel. Mrs. Ted Durein will review Until Victory by Louise Tharp, and Mrs. C. H. Maxon will present brief notes on new books. Tuesday evening, the arts and crafts section will meet at 7:45 o'clock at the home of Mrs. R. A. Montfort in Monterey.

Alan Watts Speaks Here On Asia For Cherry Foundation

Alan Watts, newly appointed Dean of the American Academy of Asian Studies, will be in Carmel again tonight and Saturday to lecture at the Cherry Foundation Hall, Fourth and Guadalupe, at 8:00 o'clock on both evenings.

Because of limited accommodations, the topic, Symbol of Reality, will be the same on both evenings, and it will be necessary for those who wish to attend to make reservation in advance by telephoning 7-7491. There will be no admission charge.

The lecturer will discuss the contribution of Chinese philosophy, and of Zen Buddhism in particular, to various problems of mental health which are of special concern to modern psychiatry.

Mr. Watts gives a weekly broadcast over Radio KPFA, dealing with the impact of Asian thought and culture upon American life.

He also has an international reputation as a writer on psychology and religion, and his eleventh book, Myth and Ritual in Christianity, is to appear this February.

Joy Westcott to Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bey Westcott of Soledad have announced that on the evening of February 6, their eldest daughter, Joy Nadine will be married to William Ernest Junkert, Jr. The 8:00 o'clock nuptials are to take place in the Community Methodist Church in Soledad, with the reception to follow at Soledad American Legion Hall.

The bride-elect was graduated from Carmel High School in June of 1948. Following a year's study at the University of Redlands, she transferred to the University of California at Berkeley, and after receiving her bachelor's degree went east for graduate work in the medical school at Northwestern University. Her younger sister, Patricia, also attended Carmel High.

Miss Turner Visits Arizona

Taking advantage of the chance to compare Carmel January sunshine with Arizona's January sunshine, Miss L. Lucile Turner left early this week for a motor trip with relatives to the neighboring state. Stops were planned at Death Valley, and other points of interest on the way.

Audubon Field Trip

The Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society will hold a field trip Sunday at Paraiso Spring. Rendezvous place is on the River Road at the intersection of the Monterey-Salinas highway about 9:00 o'clock in the morning. Members are reminded that they may bring interested friends on the field trips.

Sally Menefee, Bob Mullnix Wed

At high noon tomorrow, in St. John's Chapel at Del Monte, The Rev. Bernard Lovgren will perform the marriage of a young Carmel couple, Sally Ann Menefee and Robert Alan Mullnix.

The bride will be given in marriage by her father, Melville Newman of San Francisco. Her attendant will be the benedict's sister, Mrs. Helen Dunkelberger, who was the hostess at a surprise shower for Sally Friday night at her Carmel home. The bride's niece, Judy Skov, will be the flower girl.

For her bridal costume, Sally has chosen a ballerina-length gown of white lace and net, fashioned with long sleeves and a full tulle overskirt; a coronet of pearls will hold her fingertip veil, and she will carry a cluster of white miniature orchids and bouvardia. Her maid of honor will wear a ballerina dress of pale aquamarine net over taffeta and carry yellow carnations, while the little flower girl will wear a bouffant pink frock and carry pink carnations.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Ruth Ghirardelli Menefee, will wear a street-length dress of forest-green lace with black accessories, while the benedict's mother has chosen a navy blue costume with white accessories.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Mullnix of Carmel, will have Leroy DeLappe of Monterey as his best man, reciprocating an honor which he performed last weekend at Leroy's marriage to the former Donna Acosta. Ushers will be John and Ralph Westover, both of Carmel, Ted Lafleur of Seaside, and Bob's brother, George Mullnix.

Among the guests at the wedding and the reception, to be held at Holiday Inn in Carmel, will be Sally's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Skov of Kentfield, and their son John (their daughter, Judy, is the flower girl), and her cousins—Mr. and Mrs. George W. Baker of Los Gatos. Representing the groom's extensive family will be uncles and aunts Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Hicks, Mrs. Lottie B. Morton and Mr. and Mrs. George Schwinenger, all of Carmel.

On their return from a wedding trip in Southern California, the young couple will move into their new home in Carmel Woods, where they held a preview housewarming Monday evening for members of their families and a few close friends. The new Mr. and Mrs. Mullnix, both Carmel High graduates, plan to continue their present jobs, Sally as helper-out at the Golden Bough Playhouse and Bob as an associate in the appliance and contracting business of his uncle, Waldo Hicks.

Guests of Gottfrieds'

The L. E. Gottfrieds enjoyed an all-too-short reunion with a pair of long-time-not-seen friends, Mr. and Mrs. William Dalton, who visited on the Peninsula briefly this week. The Daltons, who make their home in Oregon, were close friends of the Gottfrieds during the time when the latter maintained a ranch in Southern Oregon.

Another pair of friends, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Moss, were the weekend guests of the Gottfrieds. The couple stopped by en route from Los Angeles to their home in Alameda.

Little Reb for the Dents

Carmel's littlest rebel is seven pound, six and a half ounce Hilda Howard Dent, who made her debut January 10 at Peninsula Community Hospital. She's the first child of Lt. and Mrs. George M. Dent of Alabama and Carmel, and they are "mighty thrilled" with her. According to her mother, Hilda looks just like her daddy—he's a second-year student in the aeronautical engineering department at the Postgraduate School.

Hilda's middle name comes from her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Howard of Alexander City, Alabama, who came out for a visit shortly after Christmas to be here for the baby's arrival. Mr. Howard, to his disappointment, was forced to return home before the big event took place, but he was able to hear one of his granddaughter's first cries over the long-distance phone. Paternal grandmother of the baby is Mrs. George M. Dent, Sr., of Eufaula, Alabama.

Gardeners Hear Graves

C. Edward Graves, newly-appointed western representative of the National Parks Association, carried his fight for the preservation of Dinosaur National Monument before the Monterey Peninsula Garden Club last Friday evening, when he gave an illustrated slide lecture on the park and the proposed Echo Park Dam as the feature of the club's regular monthly meeting at the Pacific Grove Women's Club.

Sharing the honors of guest speaker was Schuyler Reid Hafeley of Modesto, a landscape architect and member of the A.S.L.A., who discussed Landscaping the Easy Way. He was introduced by Roland Haack of the local club.

The club's monthly flower awards went to Mrs. Gertrude Wall, first; Mrs. C. C. Brockman (the club president), second; and Mrs. Carl Rasmussen, third. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Marika Sumida and Mrs. Stanley Bishop.

Carmel Dentists to City

Three local members of the dental profession will join 1200 of their fellows over the weekend in San Francisco, when 80 speakers and clinicians present the last word in dental science at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association of the U.C. College of Dentistry. Slated to make the trip are Drs. Roderick McArthur, Aloysius O'Connell and W. H.

Trimble; Dr. Francis V. Randol planned to go, but a resurgence of virus flu caused him to change his mind.

The Atom and the D.A.R.

Prof. J. D. Riggan of the department of electrical engineering and mathematics at the General Line School gave members of the Commodore Sloat Chapter, D.A.R., a graphic talk on the effects of atomic and thermo-nuclear weapons at a meeting held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Frank LaCauza.

Prof. Riggan, referring to civilian defense data from non-classified government publications, discussed at some length the physiological effects of radiation, and showed drawings and photographs of atomic explosions.

During the club's business meeting, Mrs. LaCauza, Mrs. Charles J. Conley and Mrs. Carl Mennekin were elected delegates to the state conference of the California Society, D.A.R., which convenes in Los Angeles, March 16 through 19. Tea was served by Mrs. Charles Rawlins and Mrs. George deLorimer, with Mrs. Roy Frisbee assisting Mrs. LaCauza as co-hostess.

Members and guests present were Mesdames John Calder, Roy W. Frisbee, Charles J. Conley, Fenton Grigsby, Walter Johnston, Barry H. Jones, Frank LaCauza, Harry Lansdowne, George deLorimer, Frank McKay, Grace P. Maxson, F. W. Meech, Carl Mennekin, Samuel B. Moore, William T. Moore, Mace Pewtherer, J. D. Riggins, Charles H. Rawlins, Andrew Voorhis, George Sherer, and Misses Mary Frances Hairgrave, Elizabeth Merrill, Genevieve Reed and Jeannette Whiting.

Bleefield to Speak Wednesday

Charles Bleefield, music instructor at Monterey Peninsula College and in the Carmel Adult School, will address Carmel Foundation members and their guests on How to Listen to Music at 3:00 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at Town House. An adept composer as well as teacher, Mr. Bleefield has had his works performed both in this country and Europe; his talents as a musician may be heard in his capacity as organist and choir director at St. James Episcopal Church in Monterey. He holds degrees in music from Brooklyn College and the University of California, and has taken post-graduate work at New York University and the Paris Conservatory.

Mardi Gras Princess

Peggy Glaser, daughter of the James Glasers of Pebble Beach, has been selected as one of the "princesses of the royal court" for the forthcoming Mardi Gras Ball in San Francisco. The 14 princesses, who will attend the Mardi Gras queen, were selected last week by an advisory committee, of which Mrs. Robert Stanton of Carmel Valley is a member.

Wayfarer Women's Auxiliary

The Church of the Wayfarer Women's Auxiliary met Tuesday for their regular monthly luncheon meeting in the social hall of the church. Lunch was served by Mrs. R. C. Cairns' circle.

The program included cello selections by Miss Carol Marsh; devotions were led by Dr. E. Leigh Mudge. Dr. Olive Sweazey showed one of the beautiful quilts made by the sewing group for Korea. As the final portion of the program, the group enjoyed a travel film on Mexico.

Delta Zeta Meeting

Mrs. Lloyd E. Johnson of Carmel will be hostess to the Monterey Peninsula Alumnae Chapter of Delta Zeta on Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in her home at Carmelo and Eighth.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Richard A. Ross, telephone 2-6235. All Delta Zetas who are newcomers or visitors in this area are invited to attend.

William Parker

William Walter Parker, 57, died unexpectedly Wednesday night in a local hospital following a brief illness precipitated by a heart attack.

Born December 20, 1896, in Ashland, Wisconsin, Mr. Parker had made his home in Carmel for the past 12 years. Since his arrival here he had been associated with the Le Mon Realty Company.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Margaret L. Parker of Oakland, a brother, Melvin James Parker of Santa Clara, and a sister, Mrs. Mildred P. Brown of Oakland.

Funeral services will be held at 4:00 o'clock this afternoon from the Mountain View Crematory Chapel in Oakland, with the Paul Mortuary in charge of local arrangements.

Louis Holtzhauer

Louis Holtzhauer, a resident of the Peninsula for the last 25 years, died Wednesday evening at his home on Fifth and Dolores streets. He has been in failing health for some time.

Born January 25, 1882, Mr. Holtzhauer would have celebrated his 72nd birthday on Monday. A native of the town of Reichshofen — then Germany, now part of France — he came to this country in 1906 and settled in San Rafael. In December of 1912 he married the former Martha Engisch of Petaluma, and around 1928 they moved to Carmel, where for many years he worked as a gardener and landscapist. He had been retired for the past few years.

In addition to his wife, Martha Holtzhauer of Carmel, he leaves three sons: Arthur Holtzhauer of Carmel, Rudy Holtzhauer of Seaside, and Louis Holtzhauer, Jr., who is serving in the Navy aboard the USS Bremerton. He also leaves three sisters.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 11:30 o'clock in the Dorney and Farlinger Funeral Home in Monterey, with Dr. K. Fillmore Gray to officiate. Burial will be at the Monterey City Cemetery.

POSTER CONTEST

Junior and senior high schools in the Peninsula area are being visited, this month by volunteer workers of the American Cancer Society, who are distributing materials and information pertaining to the Society's poster contest. Mr. and Mrs. Shreve Archer of Carmel have been appointed co-chairmen of the contest by Mrs. Edison Holt, county commander of the Monterey County branch of the society. The contest will continue through January 30.

Teachers Association Meets

Carmel Teachers Association met at Carmel Woods School for a general business meeting recently. After being refreshed at a well-furnished tea table the members heard a series of reports given by the professional representatives who have attended meetings in various areas of this and neighboring counties.

The teachers adopted, in principle, the Centennial Action Program for the united teaching profession for the years 1951-1957. This program is based on the conviction that our country's greatest resource is the people and they must never stop learning, that the public schools have a main purpose of developing to a maximum the human capabilities within our Democracy; that the obligation to work for an effective program of education for all people rests on all citizens as well as the teachers, and that the teaching profession has a moral obligation to recognize a responsibility to promote a program of service and leadership through a united profession in city, state, national and international areas.

Col. Langevin Cited in Korea

Col. Joseph L. Langevin, whose wife and daughter live at the Country Club, has been awarded the Republic of Korea Presidential Unit Citation as a member of the Army's Korean Communications Zone Headquarters. The decoration was presented by President Syngman Rhee in recognition of the unit's contribution to "comprehensive economic aid and relief programs for the Republic of Korea."

Col. Langevin, who has been in Korea since October of 1952, is assistant chief of staff in the operations section of headquarters. A West Point graduate, he first entered the Army in 1918 and served in Italy, France, Germany and Austria during World War II.

Enter Ellen Osborne

The opening of the Crosby Tournament last Thursday was marked by more than the usual ruffles and flourishes in the menage of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Osborne: their fourth child (third daughter) chose that day on which to make her appearance at the Monterey Hospital.

The Osbornes have named their baby girl Ellen; she's the sister of Susan, Charles and Polly Osborne. Grandparents are S. F. B. Morse and Mr. and Mrs. Lithgow Osborne of Auburn, New York.

Kellys Have a Daughter

A new heiress to the proud Irish name of Kelly was born last Tuesday at Peninsula Community in the person of a small girl named Karen. She's the new daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kelly of Carmel.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

On Sunday, January 24, the Lesson-Sermon read in all Christian Science churches, will be on the subject "Truth." The sermon consists of readings from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

Among the Bible references will be these verses from Psalms 25: "Show me thy ways, O Lord; teach me thy paths. Lead me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art the God of my salvation; on thee do I wait all the day."

The correlative passage from Science and Health: "Not materially but spiritually we know Him as divine Mind, or Life, Truth, and Love. We shall obey and adore in proportion as we apprehend the divine nature and love Him understandingly, warring no more over the corporeality, but rejoicing in the affluence of our God" (p. 140).

Carmel Portraits . . .

ter and served in that capacity for about three years. Besides performing his civic duties Beck interested himself in the welfare of the service men and entertained many of them at his home.

At the close of the war Bixler returned home and took up his duties again in the postoffice but it wasn't long before he resigned to go back into his building and contracting business. Alfred Mollner became Acting Postmaster after Bixler's resignation and his term of office was chiefly noted for the removal of the postoffice to its present location. For the first time in history we have a postoffice on which has been lavished care in its architecture and outside gardening projects and which follows in many respects the traditions of earlier years. It has always reflected the life and customs of the village. The popular saying now as of yore is: "Meet me at the postoffice." It is still the informal gathering place for the residents to visit, gossip and exchange recipes. The dogs still indulge in pleasantries with each other and occasionally have fierce battles. Old Pal, the village pet, slept in a warm corner of the old building and greeted the villagers when they arrived to get their evening's mail and his shadowy presence is even felt in the new surroundings by those who love him.

The political pot has been boiling for a long time and each time the office changed hands the name of Fred Mylar came to the front. He was popular, efficient and has been a postoffice clerk for the past 24 years. He served under Overstreet, Cator, Bixler, Bechdolt and Mollner and knew the ropes as well as any of those who were running the show. People signed petitions, he was endorsed by many organizations and the pressure finally became so great that he was at last appointed Carmel postmaster.

The demand is made recurrently (Mylar insists that I say "by newcomers") that we have a mail delivery with uniformed carriers going from house to house. But the houses would have to be numbered and sidewalks installed with the resulting destruction of trees and natural shrubs, all of which is anathema to the lovers of Carmel and its beauties. So the citizens say: "No thank you, Mr. Post Office Department. We will keep things as they are." Once we almost had a government-built structure but the people turned it down. They wanted no hand-outs.

Some tribute should be paid to those early, hardy stage-drivers who carried the mails. Joe Hitchcock, Alfred Horn, Sam Powers, Charlie (Dad) Hamilton, Charlie Gould's stages and drivers. All of them were devoted to their task and proud to be carrying the United States mail.

In closing I should tell you about the "lemon list" and I am told that it started with Slevin, our first postmaster. It consisted of those who kicked and found everything wrong with the service and gave no sympathy nor understanding to the hard-working people behind the windows and boxes. The list was added to from time to time and it is possible that somewhere in the inner sanctum that list may still be alive. But with the two dozen busy employees serving almost 3000 boxes, the lemon list has probably been abolished. Don't you wonder if you were ever on that list?

Presbyterian Church Groups Organize

With the aim of increasing church membership from 70 to 140 charter members by Easter Sunday, three new groups have been organized within the New Presbyterian Church in Carmel.

The women of the church, who are seeking to enlist 25 of the new members, met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. E. Vaughan. The pastor, Dr. Harry Clayton Rogers, was present at the organizational meeting and presented each of the women with a "symbol of faith"—a mustard-seed enclosed in a glass pendant, as a reminder of how even a small particle of faith can be made to increase.

The young married group was organized Sunday, and Dr. Rogers presented symbols of faith to the following couples: Capt. and Mrs. James E. Corum, Lt. and Mrs. H. Langdon Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Schnell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stevens and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Campbell.

The men of the church are also in the process of organizing a club.

Heart Fund Drive Opens February 1

February 1 to March 1 is National Heart Month, and the Monterey County Heart Association, along with similar organizations all over the country, is planning an intensive fund campaign towards furthering research and treatment of the nation's number one-killer, heart disease.

E. H. Ewig, president of the Monterey County Heart Association, has named Carmel Martin, Jr., as chairman of the fund drive in Monterey County. Ewig himself is chairman of the local Heart Association committee, comprising Carmel, Carmel Valley, Carmel Highlands and Pebble Beach. Members of this committee are Dr. James Finley, Dr. K. Fillmore Gray, Dr. R. A. Kocher, Horace D. Lyon, Dr. J. B. McCarthy, Dr. A. Carol McKenney, Stuart Mitchell, Fred J. Mylar, Thomas K. Perry and E. M. Seifert, Jr.

In observance of Heart Month, two major benefits are being planned for February. The first, on February 6, is the annual Union Labor Dance, sponsored by the labor unions of Monterey County. The affair, to take place at the San Carlos Hotel, is open to the public; all proceeds will go to the Heart Association.

On Sunday, February 14, the Heart Association is staging a gala Valentine's Day dinner and fashion show at Peninsula Country Club. Models will show a preview of this year's spring fashions from the Harriet Duncan shop in Carmel and Ed Williams' men's store in Monterey. Reservations for the party will go on sale shortly.

Larry And Ann Barretto Display Watercolors Made During Travels

By VIRGINIA SHAW

Visitors to Town House this week are enjoying a vicarious world tour, through the medium of a husband-and-wife watercolor show hung Monday by Mr. and Mrs. Larry Barretto.

Larry and Ann Barretto, both writers by trade, don't pretend to be accomplished painters—neither has had formal art training, though Ann took some art work in college. As they explain it, they paint for fun, and what they produce gives them a pictorial memento of some of the spots they have visited in the course of their travels.

The Barrettos' trip to Europe last year yielded several paintings in the current show: Larry's colorful view of the village of Loue in France, the landscape of Mont Filatus from Lucerne, Switzerland, a depiction of storm clouds over Madrid, and his impression of the unique haystacks in a field near Neumarkt, Austria, which look like so many huge shaggy dogs sitting up; and Ann's townscape of the narrow streets and Gothic towers of Aix-en-Provence.

An earlier trip through the Middle East is recorded in Ann's Edge of the Sahara, painted in Algeria, while Larry's Rice Paddies, Kunming, provide a reminder of his days as a war correspondent in the China-Burma-India theatre during World War II. Both Larry and Ann contribute paintings made during their trips through the southwest and Mexico, most notably Ann's picturesque view of the red-tiled roofs and twisting streets of Taxco and Larry's semi-abstract of a New Mexico landscape.

The local scenery also comes in for a place in the show, in Ann's landscapes and studies of Carmel Valley and Big Sur, and in a fine evocation of fog topping the hills behind the Carmelite Monastery. She also shows a commendable pair of florals, one a study of African violets and the other an arrangement of spring blooms, and a handsome, sensitive study for a frieze depicting Korean refugees. One of her best paintings, Funeral of a Trappist Abbot, was inspired by a photograph of services which took place in the Kentucky monastery where Thomas Merton wrote his best-seller, The Seven-Storey Mountain.

Finally, the Barrettos pay tribute to each other in a pair of small portraits on the Town House mantelpiece: Larry contributing an amateurish but appealing head study of Ann, and she a meticulously detailed watercolor of her handsome husband. The Barrettos' show, as a whole, is a pleasant reflection of the ideas and experiences of two highly interesting people.

The watercolor show will remain on view at Town House over the weekend. On Monday, Dr. Remsen Bird will hang an exhibition of his watercolors and caratures of local and national celebrities.

Throughout the month of January, the Carmel Foundation, which sponsors Town House and makes possible its many interesting and constructive activities is having its annual drive for funds. Contributions from the community are asked for to support this service for Carmel's senior citizens.

Plans Approved For New Motor Lodge On Ocean Avenue

At its Wednesday afternoon meeting, the Carmel Planning Commission approved plans for a 31-room motor lodge to be built on the northeast corner of Ocean and Junipero. Owner is Ken Brown, who recently sold his Green Lantern to his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bosholt, former owners of El Cortez, a motel in Sacramento.

The new structure, which will cost $150,000, is to be post-adobe and have a shake roof. Provision has been made for 21 off-street parking spaces. Comstock Associates are the architects.

John Keuffer was given permission to construct an addition to his building on the west side of San Carlos Street, between Fifth and Sixth, former location of the Mediterranean Market. A new market is to open there. Additions approved were for storage space in the living unit on the second floor and refrigerator space at the rear of the store.

Mrs. Hazel Riider's plans for an office at her apartment hotel on Lincoln and Fifth, resubmitted after the council had denied her appeal to allow inclusion of a bath tub, were approved, without the bath tub.

Commission set a public hearing

Associates Open Personal, Family Counseling Service

Two psychiatric social workers, Loyd W. Breaky, M. S. W., and Lillian Creisler, M. S. W., opened a consultation service in personal and family problems this week, dividing their time between Carmel and Salinas offices.

Mr. Breaky received his bachelor's degree from University of California in 1946, his masters' from Cal's Social Welfare Graduate School in 1950. In the interval of 1946-48 he was with the Veterans' Administration in Topeka, Kansas, in the training program of the Meninger Foundation School of Psychiatry. He is at present a psychiatric worker with the San Francisco Regional Office of the Veterans' Administration in the mental hygiene clinic.

Miss Creisler, who also received her masters from the University of California Graduate School of Social Welfare, has served on the staff of the counseling program of the San Francisco School Department, been director of counseling program for affiliated nursery schools of Chicago, and director of social service for the national T. B. hospital in Denver.

French Provincial Pieces On Display At Del Monte Lodge

A special showing of authentic French provincial furniture and accessories, collected in France last year by Helen Breck Lamont of San Francisco, will be held January 25-31 from 10:00 o'clock to 6:00 o'clock daily in the general offices of Del Monte Lodge.

Mrs. Lamont, a member of the American Institute of Decorators, has selected 150 of the several thousand pieces she collected in her tour of the French provinces for the display, which she believes represents the highest examples of 18th century craftsmanship.

When we came West,
we found out
Gas and electricity are cheap in California

say Mr. and Mrs. John Silva, of San Leandro, shown with their daughter

How P.G. and E.'s low rates save the Silvas money

The Silvas' P.G. and E. bill for a recent month was	$13.09
In their former home, the same amount of gas and electricity would cost	$25.68

"Before we moved West in 1952," says Mr. Silva, "I came out on a visit. And I surely liked what I saw: beautiful scenery, perfect weather, pleasant living. After moving, we found California living has still another advantage—that gas and electricity cost far less here than where we used to live."

Prove for yourself how really cheap gas and electricity are in California by comparing P.G. and E.'s combined rates today with 1938. You'll find they are actually lower now than 16 years ago. So let bargain gas and electricity serve you in more ways... make your life easier and more comfortable.
